

marinades

Infusing meat, chicken, and vegetables with flavor is as easy as opening a bottle. These six delectable blends skewered the competition.

WRITTEN BY LINDSAY FUNSTON PHOTOGRAPHS BY CHARLES MASTERS

pour it on

Thousands of years ago, Romans preserved food by soaking it in everything from milk to fruit juice. Today's marinades, however, are coveted more for their flavor-boosting potential than their spoilage prevention. Real Simple testers sampled 140 varieties (all free of high-fructose corn syrup and MSG) before finding these six saucy winners. Shake that.

Reprinted from Real Simple Magazine, June 2009 Issue
Tonton Vinaigrette is a product of USA

best Asian

TONTON VINAIGRETTE

Redolent of ginger, garlic, and a hint of apple, this pick was praised for the "surprising, fruity flavor" it imparted to meat. "So tasty I'd use it as a dipping sauce, too," a tester said.

TO BUY: $5 for 9 ounces.